. . . things were more quiet than they had been in years, because the students and teachers were learning to live and work together. Students and teachers began to regard one another as human beings. And co-operation, which is so necessary when working toward a goal, began to replace the tension that also existed in the past few years.

Perhaps stimulated by last year's threat of a closure . . .

When students take education seriously, a new world opens to them. As this was happening at Union, a change could immediately be seen: the people became interested in OTHER people. And a curiosity which had not existed since grade school was soon apparent . . .

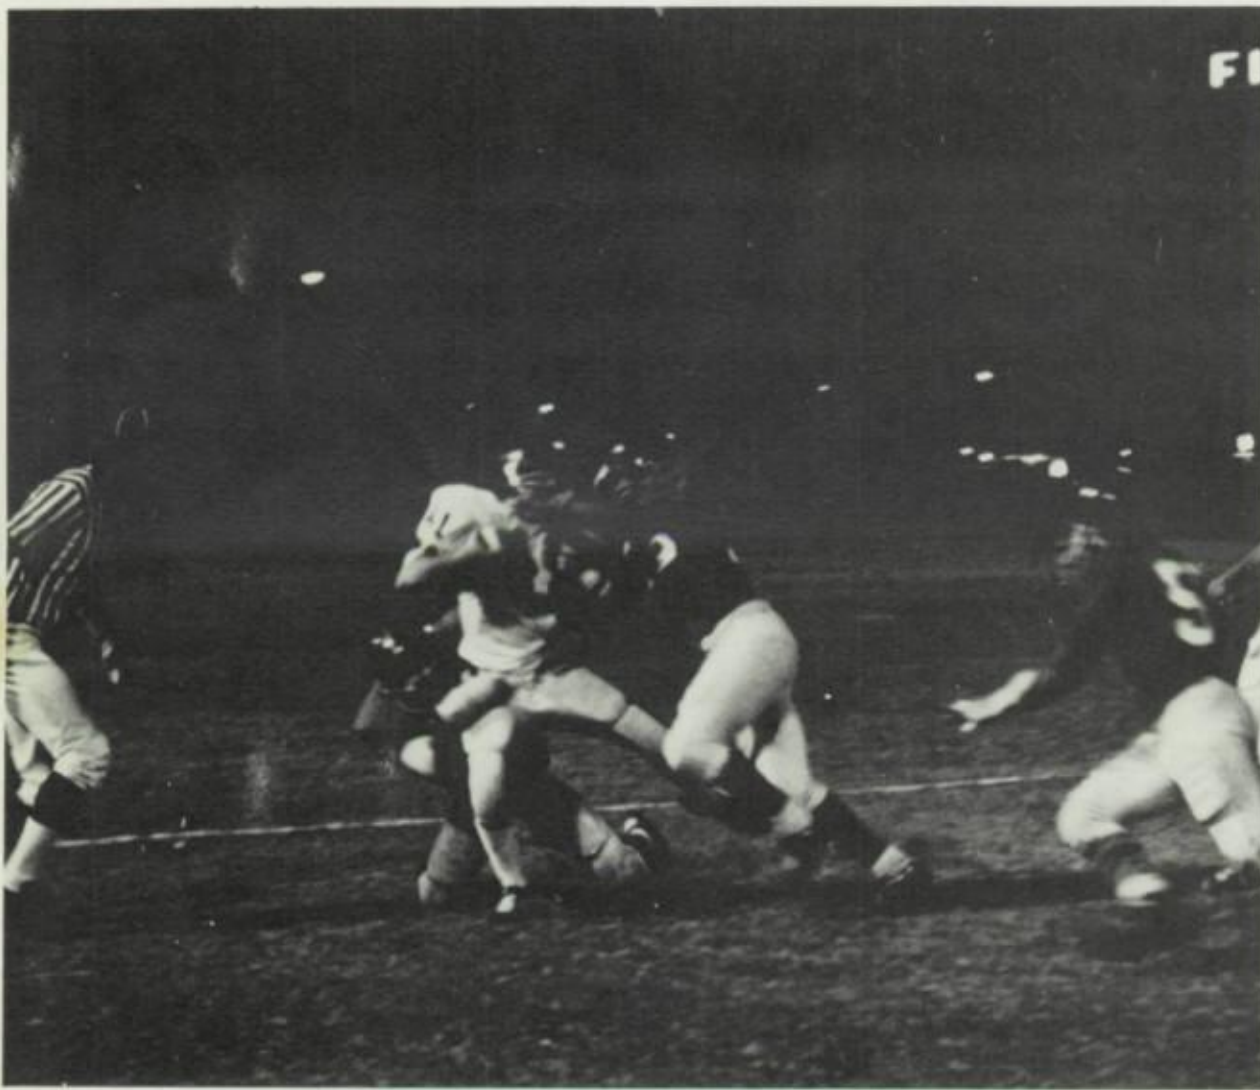

. . . All things that were of importance to this time were also important to the students of this time. Interest took the form of active involvement as more students joined the move from lethargy.

Students who once stayed in the background now made themselves heard. Even the aggressive ones changed, as they learned the meaning of the word 'compromise'.

Greater numbers of the Union population, teachers as well as students, began to see things through the eyes of other people.

With this new outlook on life, each person could look into his own soul and give an honest evaluation of it.

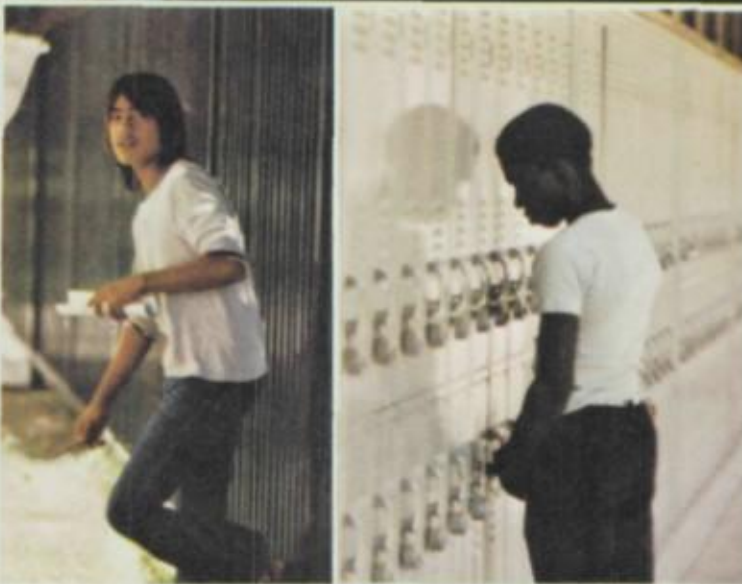

The greatest joy one person can know is to understand himself. Because they opened their minds, numbers of people here were able to experience this joy. Thus, the road towards understanding others was begun.

At 78 years, Phoenix Union is the oldest high school in Arizona, and therefore has a proud past. As the "all-city" school, it has a shifting present.

To the city, Phoenix Union has seemed the embodiment of city crime and youths' discontent. In gaining self-respect, Union is moving from this irreputable image to one of virtue and harmony.

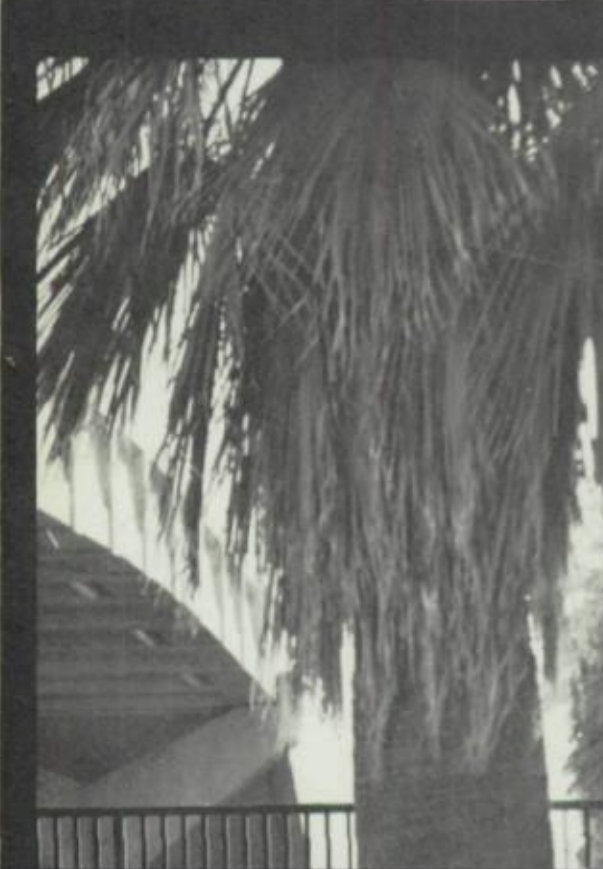

Upon entering school, a role is automatically assigned to each person — either that of student or faculty member.

Teachers, classified workers, and administrators see to the education of the students. For it is the students — seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen, who receive the benefit of the work of the faculty.

Administrators of Phoenix Union made a big drive for the completion of the eighth building, including a big celebration and dedication for it. They have also chartered tours for eighth graders to visit the campus and the new eighth building.

Head of the Phoenix Union Right to Read program Eugene Hutloff called the program an "all-out effort to eradicate illiteracy."

As the first RTR in Arizona, and the only federally funded RTR here

Union paved the way for many other state schools.

Once a month, for half a school day, every Phoenix Union teacher assembles in the Bons Auditorium to learn to teach their students to read better.

Elvira Alarcon, Bilingual Teacher, said she considers the program worthwhile.

ENGLISH is a required course in high schools everywhere. When asked why English was required, John Haynes (English teacher) commented, "All graduating students should be able to speak and write with ease, so they are understood." Through the study of literature, students gain communication skills, through the ideas and philosophy of others.

Union Moves Forward

Norma Nemeth was interviewed by a member of the yearbook staff. She was asked how she felt about Phoenix Union; her reply was, "Phoenix Union is making good forward movement in school spirit." She was also asked how she felt about the dress code. Her answer was "OK!"

She also added; "The students at Phoenix Union know that they are here to learn and are highly motivated."

Counselors Were Swamped With Referrals

Counselors at Phoenix Union were swamped with referrals from teachers who were reporting students' absents, to them after having contacted their parents. At first opportunity the counselors talk to the students, and visit their homes if necessary, to advise them on the attendance policy.

SENIORS

Between the day they first entered as Freshmen and the day of their graduation, the Seniors have seen many changes: . . . at Union . . . of the city of Phoenix . . . in Arizona . . . throughout the U.S. . . around the world . . . and beyond the heavens.

After June of 1974, the Seniors will leave Phoenix Union, their paths will diverge. And once again they will see changes — this time within themselves.

"Mad Hatters Day"

was Thursday of Homecoming Week, and the Senior activity day. The main event of the day was the judging of hats worn by some of the students and faculty particularly for the occasion. Three hats were chosen for being the prettiest, the weirdest, and the funniest. The prize for each winning owner was a two-foot long Sugar Daddy.

Seniors Take Memories

Among the things that Seniors take with them when they graduate, are memories that they had gained from the past four years of high school. As Freshmen, the class of 1974 witnessed the boycotting and picketing of Phoenix Union by Chicano parents and students.

Graduation Comes

School during the '73-74 year was, for the Senior Class, the most important year of all: the year of their graduation.

Naturally then the most significant event for most Seniors was the actual commencement, during June of 1974.

But before this, there was the opening of the new Eighth building for the second semester.

Asked to pose for the cover of the 1974 Phoenixian, this group is predominantly seniors.

Part of the Juniors' responsibility is to arrange for the sale of class rings.

Because the contract with Josten's had run out, the Class of '75 had the opportunity to choose another company. A decision was made to invite two companies, Herff Jones and Josten's, each make a half hour presentation.

From the materials that were shown, and the "sales pitches" that were given, the Junior class elected to remain with Josten's.

Friday, November 2nd, Junior Class had its Cake Walk, which had been postponed for two days. The Walk began during lunch. Junior Class had 15 cakes, donated from students and teachers. Students hesitated before participating, but caught on quickly. Participants walked in a circle as music played, and stopped when the music ceased. Each person stood in a numbered section. When the winning number was drawn, the person standing in that section won a cake. Winners were: Etta Freeman, Kenneth Davis, Rudolph Gleason, Teddy Colter, Verna Daniels, and many more.

Following tradition, the Junior Class worked in the concession stand during the Homecoming game. Students working in the stand were: Rosie Torres, Lynn Kozacka, Anna Escalante, Betty Grimaldo, Rosie Buruato, Carla Dixon, Etoyce Hollen, Hilda Otero, Michele Melton, and others who worked in various shifts during the game.

The stand opened and items were sold before the game started. Items sold ranged from: hot dogs, candy apples, pickles, coffee, and hot chocolate, to the regular items sold.

Almost sold out by the beginning of the fourth quarter, the Junior Class made $107.50.

SOHOMORES

When they had reached the end of their Freshman year, the Class of '76 passed through the first metamorphosis of their high school lives as they gradually passed through the transition from "Freshman" to "Sophomores." New familiam with the way of life at Union, the Sophomores have found themselves at home.

All of the top ten Sophomores had something in common. These students had done very well in their first year of High School. This portion of the class was made up of mostly active people. In fact among them was the Sophomore Class President, Vice-Pres., Treasurer and two of the Senators. There were also two cheerleaders, four in band, two in some sport(s) and one on the Pom Line.

Annette Jones was top Sophomore followed by Jonathon Frausto. Number three down the list was Shannon Ayers, Natalie Benitez was next. Hector Luna ends the top 2' of the class. Next was Martha Telles then Ranked seventh were Virginia Arroyo and Joe Lopez. Arthur Torres was ninth and DiDi Castillo was tenth.

Once they were the Eighth graders at schools like Bethune, Hawkins, Herrera, and Grace Court; soon they would be the new Sophomore Class. But for now, their dignity lay in Being the Class of '77.

held a "Getting to Know You Day" anyone who would say "hi" to someone from another class, race, or oppo-

Activities

New movies were in the forefront of public interest, and among the most notable were "The Exorcist" and "The Way We Were." Watergate and the fuel shortage shared the spotlight with these, especially after gas rationing and the missing 18 minutes on one of the Watergate tapes became daily household topics. Around the Christmas holidays, stargazers watched for the coming of the comet Kahoutek which could be seen at dawn and sunset. The crew of the third Skylab mission and the malfunctions of the spaceborn station were also headliners.

Homecoming week started with Freshmen "Getting to Know you Day," Monday October 29th. Freshmen said hello to students from another class, race, and sex. Sophomore Class held a "Slave Auction," and sold popcorn balls, candy apples, and confetti eggs. On the Weeks second day Juniors held a "Sweet and Sour Day." For the Seniors a "Mad-Hatters Day," they gave a prize to the coyotes with the funniest, weirdest, and prettiest hats. The Seniors were awarded for being the most spirited Class. Friday, Homecoming Day, Exect held a "Falcon Car-Mash.

Snowbowl at Flagstaff was one of the gathering places that brought the Bilingual classes to this winter resort. The trip was taken in January with the freshmen going on Thursday the 24th and the upperclassmen on Friday the 25th. Both groups traveled by Greyhound bus leaving Phoenix Union early in the morning and taking time out to stop at other historic places such as Montezuma Museum. At the Snowbowl students got a chance to experience snow, a rare sight in Phoenix. The Bilingual finally returned to Phoenix in early evening.

Phoenix Union Coyotes opened their season at home against St. Mary's. C. Jones scored on both both touch-downs passed by J. Jones. The second game, against East, was dominated by the Coyotes with a victory of 25-0. A Coyote lone score came on a 70-yard kickoff return by K. Lee; this wasn't enough to overcome the North High Mustangs. The game against South came up a tie and another was lost to Central.

At mid-season, PU took an early 7-0 lead which ended in a Coyote victory over Trevor Browne. The game against Camelback was a tight lost 23-21. The next week PU came back on top to register a 24-12 win over West. Alhambra "sneaked" by Union with a 21-20 win.

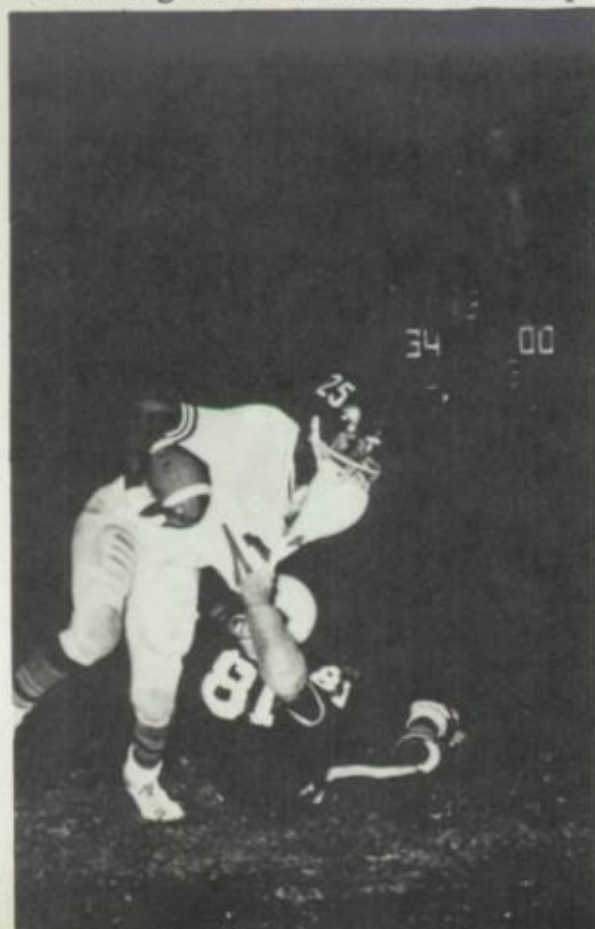

With guidance of Coaches Diaz, McGill, and Chacon the Coyotes season ended with a 4-5-1 record.

"Desire and Hustle," he continued, was quite prominent especially from such stalwarts as Richard Trevino, Chris Mayfield, Billy Hullaby and Mike Smiley. Most of the games were decided by one touchdown. This seems to indicate that the pack played on even terms with most of their foes. With a few breaks they could have come-out on the top.

Organizations

Along with the new fads — the wearing of high-waisted pants, fur-covered Eisenhower jackets, and thick-soled shoes, a new college organization was created. Calling themselves the "Streakers," their fad was wearing nothing at all while running through a campus or a downtown area.

After being indicted by a grand jury, Spiro Agnew resigned as vice president of the United States; in his place, Gerald Ford was appointed. Union also underwent a governmental change when Richard Golden, elected student body president, drowned in the Verge River. Edward Pena assumed his office, and a special election found Ida Johnson (Wilbur) the new vice president.

Corr. Sec. Lydel Duckett.

Student Body Vice Pres. Ida Johnson.

Student Body Pres. Edward Pena.

Gov't Advisor. Robert Katz.

Supreme Court Justices: Timothy Freeman, Kenneth Richardson, Janie De La Torre. (Top) Maria Arbizu, Karen Scott.

Rec. Sec. Debra Bowie.

Phoenix Union's Concert Band gave a Christmas Assembly for the school.

The Band not only played their instruments, they also sang Christmas Carols.

One of the songs the band played was "Christmas Around the World."

Some of the songs that were sung were: "Do You Hear What I Hear,"

"I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas," led by David Branham; "Pablo the Reindeer," and "Joy to the World."

During the football season the Marching Band Paraded across the field during half time. A few of the songs played by the Marching Band were; "You Are the Sunshine," "Watermelon Man," "April in Paris," and "Ain't No Sunshine . . ."

PURE once again shows their talent to Phoenix Union students at a basketball assembly.

Marie, Carla, Faye, and Linda chant "Do It Do It Alright" at home game. Pep Club, a newly established club on campus this 1973-74 school year, began during the football season. The purpose of the club was to give the game viewers pep, add more spirit to the school, inspire the team, and strengthen the voice of the cheers. Pep Club began with a large membership which declined with the change from football to basketball season. Members of the Pep Club wore red tops and black pants. The Pep Club hopes to regain members and participate at the games for many more seasons.

Meetings were held at the fifth building for the Spanish Club members. At these meetings they discussed and made plans for their future activities. Carnations were sold for 50¢ on Homecoming Week, and corsages were sold for 65¢. White Shoulders, Arpege, Channel No. 5, and other perfumes were sold for a dollar a dram. With this money the club prepared for their end of the year trip.

During the first semester the Phoenician Staff worked mainly on class sections, after arranging for a photographer to take the class pictures. To raise money, the staff had a carwash and sold some ads to various places of business. Second semester started with clubs, organizations, and sports. For the remainder of the semester the staff had more money-raising activities and prepared for next year's yearbook. Black Student Union sponsored a basketball game, where the National Honor Society consists of the top 7% of the Seniors. This year the members of NHS had difficulty running for an office because most of them already held other offices. They presented this problem to the Senate and were given an exception to run for the offices of NHS. After they got their officers elected to raise money for a scholarship fund.

Members of Human Relations got together, made flowers out of crepe paper, and distributed them to the ladies at the Homecoming game. The flowers were Phoenix Union's colors, red and black.

Cross Country Club had been collecting old newspapers throughout the 72-73 school year to raise money for the Cross Country Team to attend a training camp in Payson twice during the summer. This year the club had several carwashes and sold toy helicopters to help pay for the Second Annual Cross Country Banquet.

C.O.E. stands for Cooperative Office Education. The purpose for this club is to prepare students for an office job after graduation. These students get the feel of the office atmosphere by working half a day in Phoenix business offices, the other half of the day they continue with their senior classes. D.E.C.A. (Distributive Education Clubs of America) is an ## international organization.

Some of their regular activities consist of working at the concession stand at "Fast Track," going to Nogales, Mexico to visit various factories and also to San Diego, California to visit different factories and television shows. This club is made up of Juniors and Seniors who have Marketing or Merchandising for a class.

Snowbowl offered a grand view to the clubs' members.

After the clubs had finished, Photo President Bailey Hom inspects "Roscoe."

Enjoying the trip, the students, advisors, and friends of the members played football and slid down the slopes on inner-tubes. They also held snow fights and

First of all I would like to thank 19 other people for their contributions to this book. I won't name them, but they know who they are. I would also like to give no thanks for anything to Jorge Hernandez.

Now I would like to say a few hundred words about the 1974 Phoenician staff, to let it be known how we published this book: We ate from the chuck wagon that catered to the evening school students, Jack-in-the-Box, Red Devil's, and What-A-Burger; cases of malnutrition set in. Often we would not leave campus until the early morning hours, and we got little sleep. All our free time was spent working in room 921 on the yearbook, and families and friends were neglected for the Phoenician's sake.

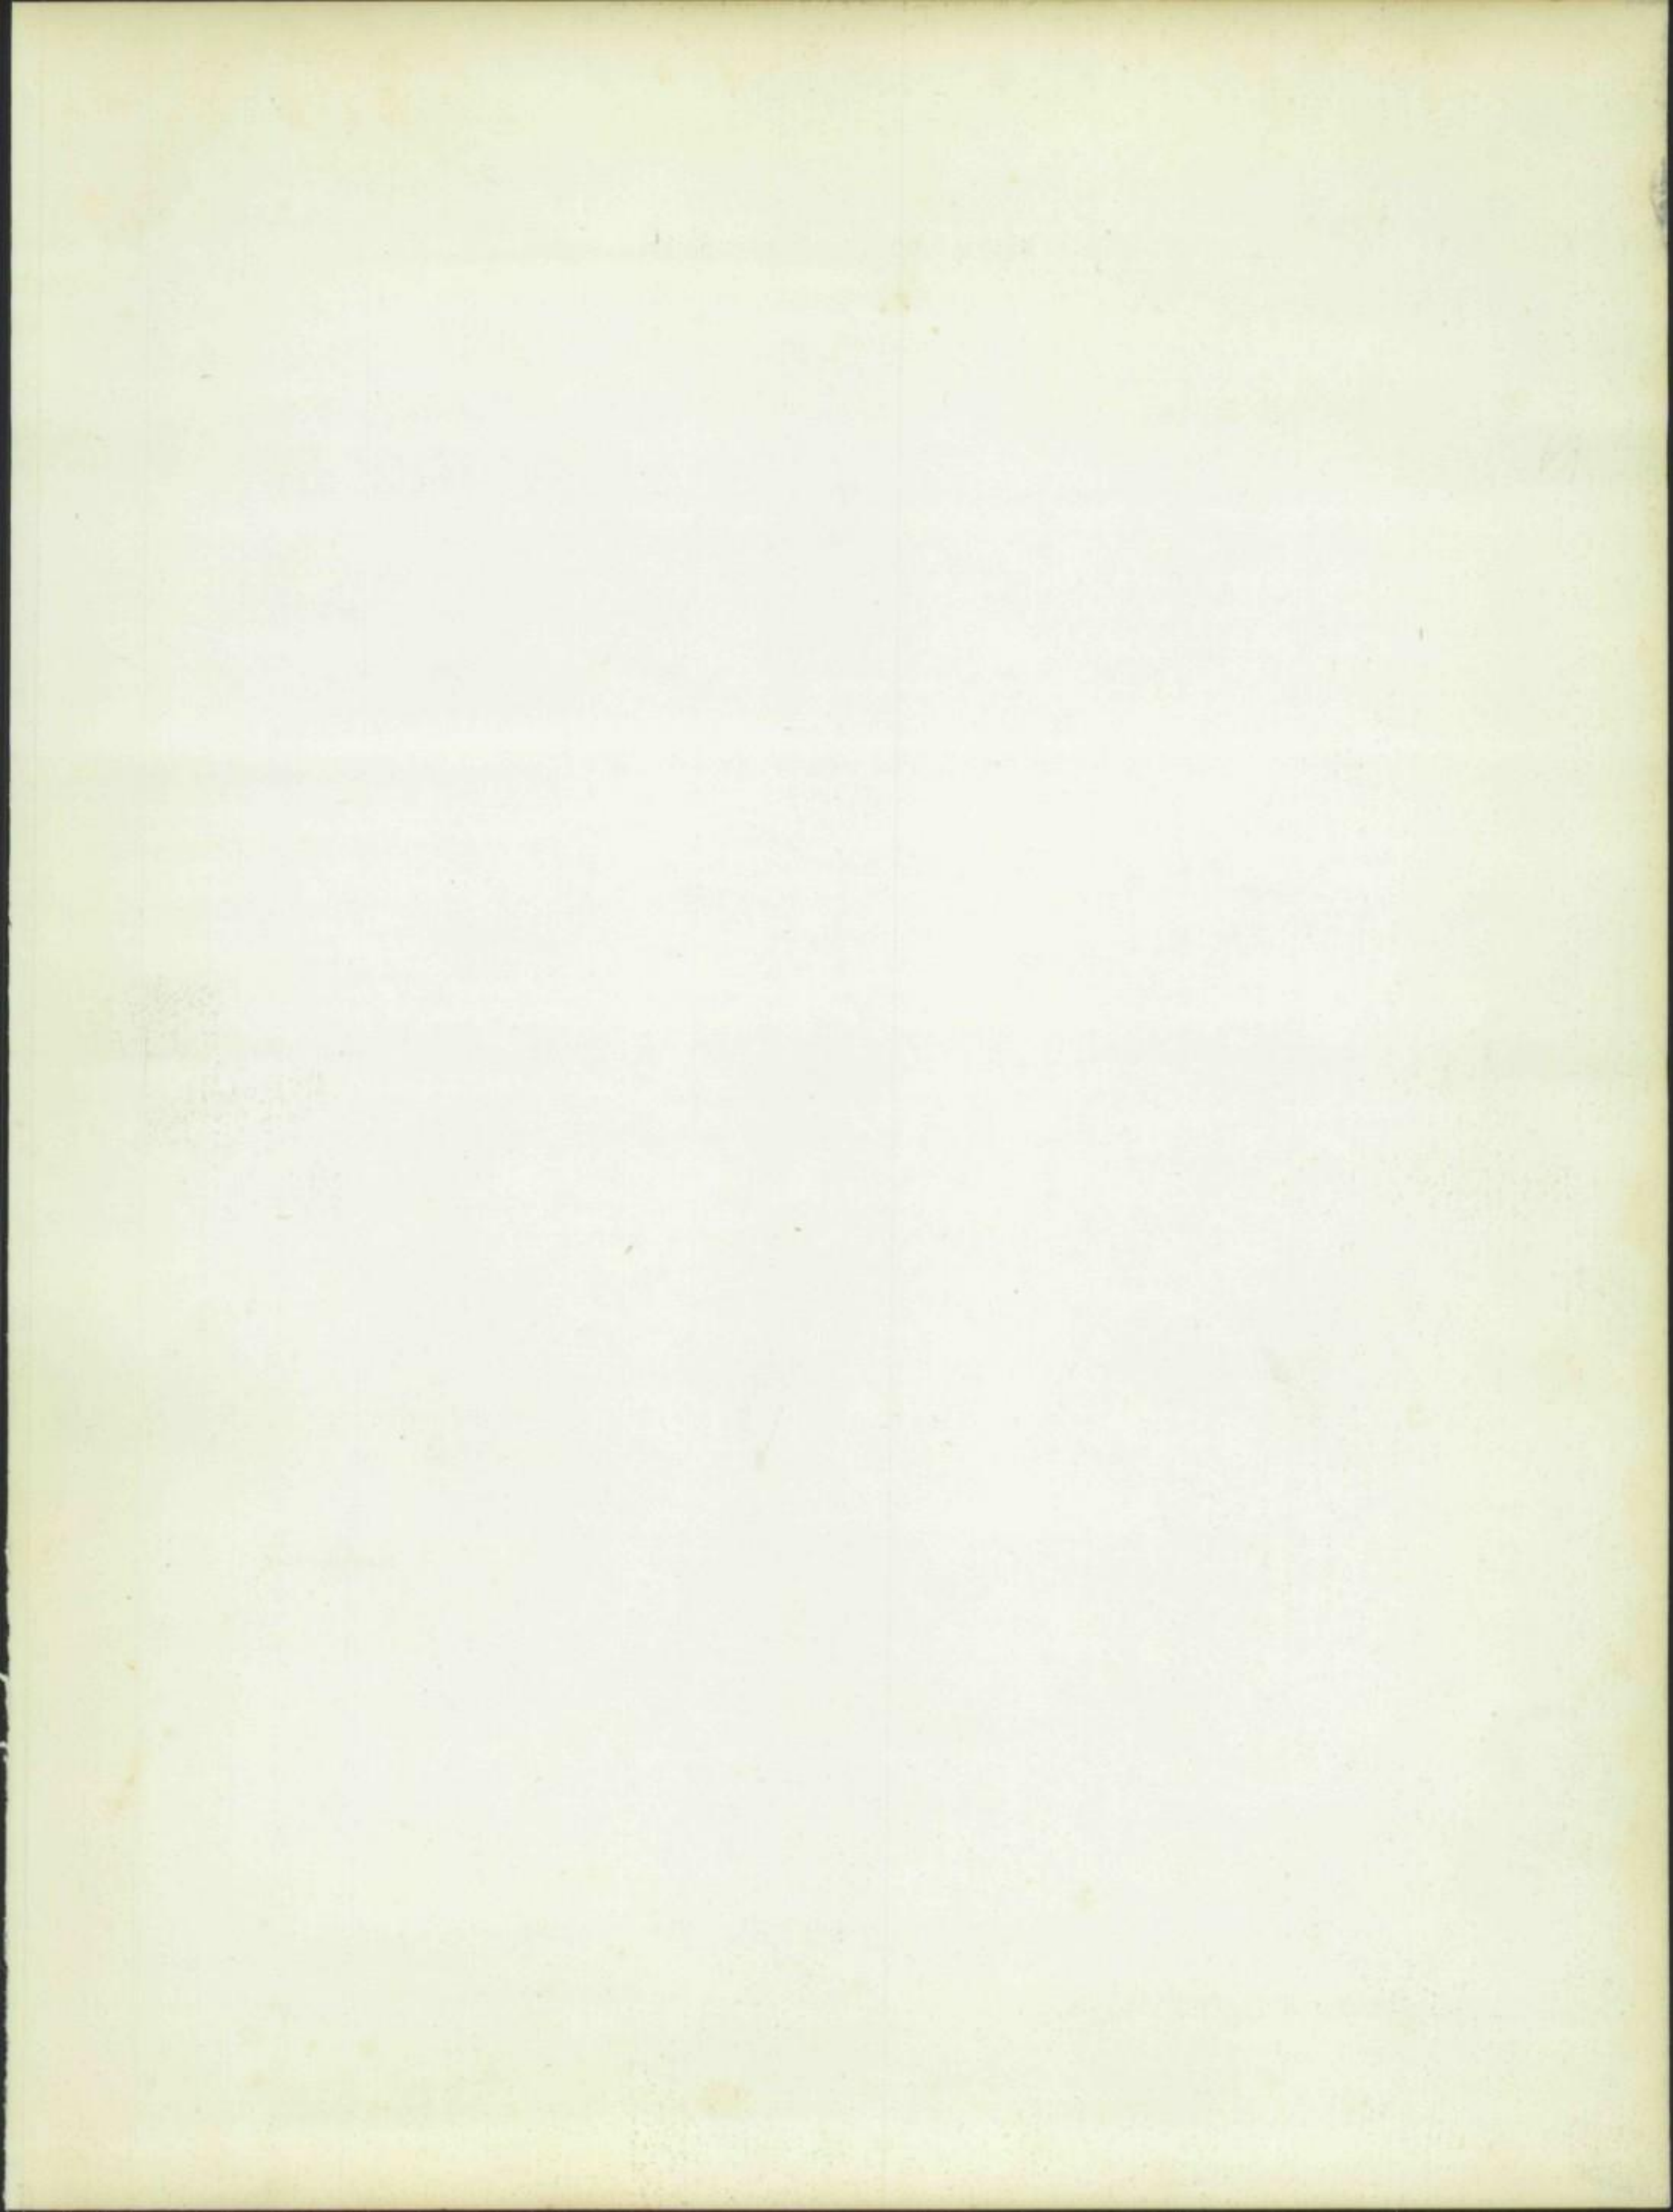

Our other classes were missed, grades dropped, assignments were ignored, all for the students of Phoenix Union. We developed prints and negatives in the darkroom, and got poor eyesight from hours in it. Outside the darkroom, we developed worry lines, headaches, bad tempers, frayed nerves, and giggles that just missed being hysteria. Perhaps I have exaggerated about what we went through, but I have not exaggerated much. Certainly not all the staff went through this, just most of us; and of course not all of it was bad . . . there were good moments: never turning the radio off, laughing at Hector's singing, not having to go home, the staff basketball games, and getting into the home basketball games free . . .

Some people will not appreciate the time, trouble, and effort that the Phoenician staff went through to produce this book; in fact, I know none of you will. We don't expect sympathy — we accepted what turned out to be a real burden. We accomplished our goal, and we're proud of it. But what was hard for us to take was the lack of interest shown by the overwhelming majority of students and teachers, not only in the Phoenician, but in the school itself. Less than 25% of the people at Union bought a book, after what was a major effort for us. There may never be a Phoenician after this one, which means that in a way we have failed, because part of our effort was so that there would be more yearbooks. My compliments to the ! # & ***??! 75% of you who, through your continued apathy, have brought such a condition into being. It's really too bad for you.
